Rosanna Trueman/ died December 29th 1927/ aged 71 years

And/ Henry William Trueman/ died February ...th 1930 aged 72 years.

James Henry Trueman, 'Jim', was the first son of Henry William and Rosanna Trueman. Jim became a tram conductor. He married Cecilia Powell, a Hythe girl, in 1899 and they had two children, Georgina, born in 1900 and James, born 1903. In 1911 they were all living at Frampton Road, Hythe. The family emigrated to Canada in 1913. Cecilia died there at Bayham, Elgin, Ontario on 6 April 1915, aged 37. Jim enlisted in the Canadian Army Medical Corps in 1916. Shortly before this, on 17 October 1916, he married Violet Reid in Frontenac, Ontario. He sailed for England and was stationed at Westenhanger, near Hythe. His health then gave way and he spent several months in the Moore Barracks Hospital at Shorncliffe Camp. Five weeks before his death he was invalided out of the Army. His two children apparently returned to England with Violet, as they were present at his funeral. Unfortunately, it transpired that he had not, in fact, been legally married to Violet. She had 'married' several other Canadian servicemen in the hope of getting their separation allowance when they were on active service and their pension if they were killed. Unsurprisingly, she disappeared without trace. Jim is named on the Brookwood Memorial 1914-1918 Wall, Surrey as one whose final resting place is unknown, but the Commonwealth War Graves commission intend to mark his grave in Hythe.
